Chakamian, is an Iranian born artist, who paints with an emotional intensity that touches the heart. With a bachelor's degree in fine arts and a master's degree in business, she delves deep into human experience, evoking a profound emotional response through her creations. Her art serves as a heartfelt exploration of the complexities of womanhood, celebrating the indomitable resilience and strength of women.

Influenced by her cultural background and strong desire for freedom, her paintings of women dancing convey a meaningful message. Each brushstroke captures the yearning of women to break free from social limitations and express themselves freely. Her art resonates like a beautiful melody, echoing the collective longing for liberation.

But it is in her flower paintings that her emotions truly bloom. "When I'm painting flowers, I love using the vibrant colors of nature to celebrate the beauty and diversity of the natural world. If you look at my work and see the fleeting wonders of life and find joy in nature's marvels, I have accomplished my goal." Chakamian enthusiastically explains.

Sheri's art takes us on a heartfelt journey, touching the core of our being. Through her expressive creations, she invites us to reflect on the beauty of existence, celebrate our own resilience, and find comfort in our inner strength, in her hands art becomes a powerful language of emotions, reminding us to embrace our resilience and rise above life's obstacles. Hear about Sheri's process in her own words using the QR codes throughout the interactive exhibit.
